

Benefits of Membership

Outline of the various benefits to joining UKASP.

UKASP aims to become the voice of Security Professionals within the UK and to be truly representative of the entire industry. UKASP's work will be aimed at promoting the interests of the security sector whilst developing strong links with Government departments and industry group. Becoming a member of UKASP enables you to be represented by an influential trade body when meeting with officials from the Home Office, the DTI and the SIA. It also enables you to get involved in shaping industry policy together with fellow professionals by participating in the various working groups. UKASP also provides excellent networking opportunities for members to meet other people from across the industry spectrum, through either specific events or general UKASP activity.

General Benefits:

- Membership of a recognised and respected trade body;
- Representation at Government and Industry level;
- Participation with important Government officials, regulators and the media on important industry issues and event;
- Participation in shaping industry policy via the UKASP working groups;
- Regular networking opportunities for members;
- Regular updates and intelligence reports on current security issues;
- Use of the UKASP logo, a symbol of best practice within the industry.